

Religious Holiday Calendar

Capital University Law School is a culturally and spiritually diverse community welcoming of a variety of practices related to religious traditions, observances, practices, and worldviews.

Members of the Law School are encouraged to take into consideration major religious holidays when scheduling important deadlines, events, and activities.

This calendar is designed for informational purposes only and may not include all major holidays. Due to variations in practices and the use of different cultural calendars, some dates may vary. For information regarding appropriate accommodations, or to suggest changes to this calendar, please contact DEI@law.capital.edu.

Critical Notes:

- Jewish and Muslim holidays begin at sundown the previous day.
- The Jewish observance of Shabbat occurs weekly from sunset Friday to sunset Saturday.
- Dates may vary depending on interpretations of the lunar calendar.
