

About the National Center for Adoption Law & Policy

Capital University Law School is home to the National Center for Adoption Law & Policy (NCALP), an organization dedicated to improving the law, policies, and practices associated with child protection and adoption systems across the nation. Our vision is that all children — especially those who have been abused or neglected, or are dependent on the state for their care — may obtain safe, healthy, and permanent homes. The Fellowship Program is administered and supported by the Center.

Established in 1998, NCALP is a multi-purpose training, resource, and advocacy center for child protection issues that has achieved national prominence in the areas of adoption and child welfare. Visit www.ncalp.org to learn more.
