Students with University-approved testing accommodations may have their exams scheduled at any time throughout the exam period. Approved testing accommodations are not applied automatically, and students must affirmatively elect to use approved accommodations by the stated deadline.

Exam conflicts are not resolved automatically. Students must request rescheduling for any qualifying conflict under Section 4.8.02. When a 24-hour conflict exists, the rescheduled exam will be moved to the earliest available make-up date following the conflicting exam that does not create a new conflict with the student's other exams. Students with exam conflicts should be advised that make-up exams may be scheduled any time during the exam period (including the weekend) and should plan accordingly.
